

Texas

Published on 02.02.2013 Texas is located on the South of the country. Its area is 696 241 km² is the second largest state in the US. The capital of Texas, Austin. Texas is an important center of agriculture chemical, oil and gas industry education and Finance. In the period before the Second world war, the state was predominantly agricultural and, after the war, industrialization began here at a rapid pace. To date, the basis of the state's economy consists of oil and gas and chemical industries of energy, manufacturing industry and agriculture. Main cities and economic centers of the state that Dallas and Houston. An important role in the economy of the state also play in El Paso and San Antonio. Houston is the center of space technologies in this city are located the main power NASA while in Dallas develop information technology and industry. Part of the state accounts and on the coastal zone of the Gulf of Mexico. In this region widespread fishing oil production and tourism with related services. The Central and Western part of the state are mainly engaged in farms. Some are pastoralists, some are grown various crops such as cotton and corn. The North of the state belongs to the set of oil companies. It is interesting to note that in Texas gambling business is prohibited. The economy of the state is in the process of growth. So in 2009 the GDP of the state amounted to 1764 billion. Growth the following factors contribute to the presence of a large number of jobs available, the cost of housing high standard of living of the population preferential taxation for small business the degree of control and state intervention in the economy. And an important aspect particularly relevant for agriculture is favorable mild climate. An interesting event happened in 2011. 6 March in the state capital, Austin, was a demonstration of supporters of independence of the state from the United States. The reason for this demonstration was the dissatisfaction with the current state of the economy and growing foreign debt. It is known that this action was organized by an active group called the Republic of Texas. Texas Governor Rick Perry staying in his post for a second term, hinted at the possibility of the withdrawal of Texas from the United States in 2004. After the re-election of U.S. President Barack Obama on the white house website appeared the petition on the peaceful withdrawal of Texas from the country. What is interesting to the petition, joined by many of the citizens of 20 States. This treatment became the first in U.S. history after 1861, six southern States wished to secede from the state by refusing to vote for Lincoln. The authors

Link to article: Texas